Vol. 32 p. 224
Vol. 32 p. 280
- ³ From conversations, letters and statements of historical account presentation at Fore Cemetery Association 1982 annual meeting by Mrs. Etta Fore Pugh and Mrs. Mabel Fore Stricklin, granddaughters of Wiley & Ellinor (Brewer) Fore
- ⁴ From account & recollections of Mr. Robert Zebulon Baker, grandfather of the writer of this narrative, who as a 15 year old boy prepared the graves of the two young de Luna children buried on morning of October 6, 1884 (the day before Mr. R. Z. Baker's 15th birthday). Mr. Obed Baker, father of R. Z. Baker, built two small plank coffins which his wife Eliza (Cottle) Baker lined with muslin and a small pillow for the two young children. Obed later constructed "a pailing fence around the two graves to protect them from livestock" which grazed the open area on this hillside.
- ⁵ From recollection of Mrs. Florence (Baker) Day, aunt of this compiler, and also referenced by Mrs. Emilee (Baker) Love, mother of the compiler, who recalled "Aunt Ellen Cole's funeral beneath the 'Old Funeral Tree within Fore Graveyard'" and her vivid recollection of Aunt Ellen's black coffin "setting beneath the tree."
- ⁶ BUD'S AND BEE'S - TWO SAINTS AND HOW MANY STRANGERS, A Comprehensive Area History of the North San Gabriel River Valley; written by the Robert Zebulon Baker family; edited by Mrs. Florence (Baker) Day & Ralph Dixon Love, writer of this narrative.
