p. 50. Wilson notes the similarity of dates and initials of A. W. P. Smalley with those of Moses P. Smalley, and believes this to be his marker. It is certain that more burials were made in this cemetery, and stones have disappeared or have been covered by soil.

In his papers, Paul Wilson, Jr. (op. cit. pp. 29, 43-44), attempts to prove that Mrs. Newman was not the sister, but rather the cousin of Freeman Smalley.

13. Wilson, op. cit., pp. 35, 50.

14. Wilson, op. cit., p. 50. Wilson believes that her marriage to Cox was a second marriage, and that she is the same Mrs. Mary Linzey who married Rev. Thomas Washington Cox in Fayette County, Texas on September 12, 1848, in a ceremony performed by Rev. Freeman Smalley, Sr. It is the opinion of this writer that Mary was, in fact, the wife of John T. Cox, a Methodist clergyman listed in the 1850 Williamson County census with wife Mary, and six children.

15. Shroyer and Hood, op. cit., p. 274.

Carroll (op. cit., p. 27) has confused this Sabra with her niece, Sabra Caroline Smalley, daughter of Freeman Smalley, Jr., who married Samuel Bruer Purcell.
